

DECORATIONS AND STATUES.—The altar is to be covered with red carpet, and the altar cloth displayed offering seats for sale. In Oxford and Cambridge-ter, the Paddington Vestry have erected a castellated triumphal arch, the superstructure of which is lavishly decorated with statues. The pillars are coloured to represent stone and the buttresses marble. The lower part will be covered by trailing ivy. On one side of the triumphal arch is an altar bearing a statue of St. George, and the other devices, and across the centre are the words "Our hearts, thy throne." In Edgware-rd. a second triumphal arch has been erected, the superstructure of which is carved in stone from Paddington to Marble Arch is lined by Venetian masts, from which will depend flags and streamers to give colour to the scene.

ROYAL FAMILY AND THE PROCESSION.—The illustrated programme of the Royal Procession on Jubilee Day, published in aid of the Princes of Wales's Hospital Fund for the aged, shows the order of the procession, and shows the order of the Royal carriages, and gives the School Board. The result of the survey was, on the whole, satisfactory, and only in one or two were alterations deemed advisable. It was found that the gale was the worst had loosened the heavy portions of the decorations on buildings along Borough-rd., near the L.C. and Station, and these were ordered strengthened immediately. The decorations of the masts and pillars of the Strand and Fleet-st were also found to have been blown askew and were partially loosened, while a few of the flags were blown down. It was found that the wind, following the sunline, had very much increased the strain on some of the erections. Directly given that all these defects should be immediately remedied, and the buildings subjected to a careful and at a number of places a line of route extra padmen were ordered to be sent out to renovate the wood paneling.

MONITOR has been ordered to be sent out to renovate the wood paneling.

Honorary directors were con-

South Africa, the city, and the Government of the Transvaal, at luncheon in the Municipal buildings. Mr. Laurier, the Canadian Premier, responded to the toast of "Our Colonial Empire." The party left in the course of the afternoon for Liverpool, where they arrived at midnight. The Premiers have also been entertained during the week at Manchester. A rehearsal was held last week for the purpose of the military procession, in which the troops took the positions which the respective detachments will occupy on the 22nd. As announced, they will be split up into parties, forming guards of honour. It was, to the 11 Colonial Prime Ministers, who will be conveyed in 6 motor carriages. The whole force, some 100 men mounted and others on foot, were taken to the Embankment, where the Colonial procession will be formed, and were placed exactly where they are intended to be on Tuesday. Col. Ballie Hamilton, of the Colonial Office, Col. I. Herbert, Capt. Fry, adjutant acting with the Colonials, Chesham, and other military officers were present, and the men were carefully coached in the duties they will be expected to perform. From the Embankment they will proceed to the Palace, and thence along the route on which the Royal Procession will pursue. A part of the practical demonstration consisted in taking the troops over the opening stage of the route. The experiment passed off successfully.

Naval defences of the Empire. Lord Rosbery proposed "the Houses of Parliament," and congratulated the Prime Minister and the Colonial Secretary for having been instrumental in bringing that gathering together. In reply, Lord Salisbury said they were representing there the growing Empire of Great Britain—an Empire which would rest upon the growth of sympathy and of common thought and feeling between those who had a common future to look to.—Mr. Chamberlain responded for the House of Commons, remarking that he had shown itself capable of rising to lofty patriotism upon which future security and glory of the Empire depended.

COMMEMORATION FOR THE COLONIES
The Admiralty have made an ments for the Colonial Premier's present at the Naval Review on 26 on board the a.s. Eldorado, originated for the Corps Diplomatique. A distinguished group of visitors will be on board the a.s. Vanua on the same occasion. The arrangements have been made for Colonial troops to see the fleet at sea on Wednesday, the 25th, and shipboard on Thursday, the 26th. This will be a better opportunity for seeing individual vessels than on the day of the review. Arrangements have been made to enable a visit to be made to certain of the Colonies in the a.s. Vanua, which is stationed in the mouth of Dockyard, and subsequently to London.

GRATITUDE OF RAILWAY.

A very agreeable function took place in one of the board rooms at the Station, when a presentation was made to Mr. Harrison, general manager of the L. and N.W. Ry., on behalf of the whole of the guards engaged upon the company's system, in recognition of the concession of a holiday, with pay, granted to the directors of the company, by Mr. Harrison's recommendation. The presentation took the form of an address with an engrossed and illuminated address on the first page, and succeeding pages capably illustrating portraits of each of the members of the committee charged with the carrying out of the arrangements. In addition to the members of the committee, a delegate from every one of the company's system was present on the occasion.

At Chelmsford, Justice Mathew presided, and Mr. Harrison presided William Henry Steward, Esq., a tutor, formerly in Holy Trinity, who had been sentenced to 12 months' hard labour, for recently assaulting 2 boys at South

ANGLING.
YESTERDAY'S REPORTS.
The rain had had a beneficial effect on the Thames. Arun, Wey, and other rivers. During the week the water in the Thames has been of a better quality than for some time. It is clearer, and by to-day it should be in excellent order. Roach are not yet in good condition, but chub and dace are worth trying for. The following are the latest reports on the undermentioned stations:—
THE THAMES.
TWICKENHAM.—The water is a very oily, oily smelt like breeding.
WINDSOR.—The water is a little better colour to-day. The punts got a barbel and chub on the opening day. A large trout with John Smith caught a barbel.
SUNBURY.—The prospect of barbel-fishing appears to be good for the present season.
WYKE.—The water is in better condition to-day. Mr. Taylor has taken a HIP POLO—The water is now in nice condition, but fish have not been feeding to the opening day.

UP DATE—The water has been a very good color, but no flaring down. Keenly taken a few large chub, and broom, largest broom going 3 lbs.

Y WINDSHO—Very few fish have been in since the 1st. The water having such a bad color. It is now clearing, sport should be had with proper baiting the 30th.

3 MARLOW—The water is becoming clearer, in consequence of which all kinds have been off the 1st. The prospects are better as heavy sun is falling.

5 HENLEY—The water is now in fine condition, but have not met with much success. Chub and perch are the principal feeding.

7 READING—The coarse fishing season is well advanced. The water is in a capital state. Small anglers secured small lots of chub and chub. The trout anglers have been a little better this week. Mr. Angler.

PAN-BOURNE—Three nice trout, about 4 lbs. each, were taken on the 11th inst. in the Fane is colour of Thames, but some very good heads of trout have been made.

REACH—The Capt. Sams, of Farnham, took several Chub on the 11th inst. with a 12 lb. Sab. on a day and Franny with Barbelhouse, took the best averaged fish, each.

THE ARUN—

HERFORD—Bass fishing opened on Monday, but nothing worthy of note has done. The water has been much cooler than it was, and does not come in this river until only last.

THE ARUN—

PELHAMPTON—The heavy rains coloured the water, but it should be raised by Sunday.

POINTS OF DIFFERENCE.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are not drastic purgative, to irritate the stomach & bowels. They act on the Liver directly; hence their effect is permanent, not merely transitory. Agreeable, not nauseating, healthy, not de-bilitating. They have been before the public for two generations, continually increasing in sale and popular favour. All who take them recommend them. Sold by Chemists, is 1/4d.

BUT BE SURE THEY ARE CARTER'S

THE REASON WHY

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are always

form in composition and effects; they would not be laid upon. Those who use them would not on account have any other: they ask for CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, and make sure they get Carter's. If you want a simple purgative, that no effects except to make you uncomfortable for a day and a-half, by all means buy the imitation. But if you wish for something that will relax sick headache, heartily stimulate the torpid liver, do away at once with biliousness, salivate, discomfort after eating, coated tongue, unpleasant breath, and indigestion, if you want something that will restore the appetite, and away with all anxiety as to whether your doctor will "agree" with you, ask for CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, and

THE STORY OF QUEEN VICTORIA'S REIGN.
FACTS, FIGURES, AND EVENTS.
INCIDENTS AND ANECDOTES OF THE PAST SIXTY YEARS
A BRILLIANT RECORD.

THE QUEEN HERSELF.
The Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria, was fourth son of George III., and, it has often been said, an infinitely better man than any of his royal progenitors.
His daughter, Victoria, married Prince Albert, son of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld. He was tall and strikingly handsome, a rigid disciplinarian, while he himself described his politics as "half free and half booting," only because they suggest the source of some of the articles of faith of his royal daughter.
"I am," he said, "a friend of civil liberty, an enemy to all religious tests, and an supporter of the system of education. All men are my brethren, and I hold that power is delegated only for the benefit of the people." The Duke and Duchess lived much abroad, and the natives of the continent returned to England to that their child might be "born a Briton." At sunrise on in the following year, a second store was forwarded. A Deal boatman, a destitute and aged man, whose wife had died, petitioned of his widow was brought to the notice of the Princess, and a sum of money was at once entrusted to a local gentleman to disburse. Thus early did the Princess Victoria show her benevolence, which have ever marked her glorious reign. There are scores of anecdotes like these which are current concerning her Majesty's early days, but we must not linger.

THE PRINCESS VICTORIA

On the 13th of March, 1840, she came to the throne, came when her Majesty was but 18. Late at night, after the Princess had gone to bed came messengers from the Court—Lord Melbourne and the Archbishop of Canterbury—riding in the great London Broughs—“The Princess Victoria is asleep.” Was the answer they received, met by the stern reply, “We come on business of State to the Queen, and of dear food. They suffered also from excessive hours of work and insanitary and dangerous conditions. When the Queen came to the throne the employment of little children in mines and factories was general and unrestricted, and it was still legal in 1842, the year of the passage of the first Factory Act. In 1842 Sir Robert Peel's Government established the 10 hours' day in mines, and in 1844 succeeded in carrying the first of the long series of Factories Acts. The Queen helped to make the work of the English artisan the least oppressive in the world. It must be remembered that at the time of the Queen's accession, and for many years afterwards, the combination of long hours of work with the combination of low wages or reduction of hours was regarded as unlawful. A remarkable summary of the advantages possessed by the British workman of to-day was made only a few years ago by Sir E. Arnold at Birmingham in can be said and written of British freedom and patience has become defence. But the revolt sounded the East India Co.'s knell. Lord Palmerston immediately prepared a bill for the dissolution of that historic body, and on Aug. 1, 1858, the "British India Company," the direct controller of the "brightest jewel in the British crown." It is a common-place to say that the change has been fraught with marvellous results. The "British India Company," an Eastern possession. Since 1858 22,000 miles of railway have been constructed, and an enormous industrial interest has been created. In 1858 the population of Great Britain, the refugees, assassin, Orsini, awakened his threats in France of an invasion of England by Louis Napoleon's forces. So belligerent was the French position that the cause of formation of our splendid Volunteer force, with its admirable motto—"Defence."

 union between the Mother, Mary,
 and her beloved son. The Jubilee year,
 and surely needs no comment to-day,
 has been added to the five which had then been completed since her Majesty's death in March 1888.
 The Queen's letters to Miss Gordon
 on the occasion of Gen. Gordon's death were published. In those her Majesty said she knew that the stain left by the death of Gordon was a very rough blemish, and that it gave her an inexpressible grief to think that the promises of support—which she had continually pressed upon him—

Coburg and Gotha. It will be seen that in the course of nature the future rulers of Great Britain, Germany, Russia, Greece, and Roumania will be descendants of her Majesty.

Five times in the course of her reign
the Queen has suddenly been brought face to face with death at the hands of an assassin. Three of these fearful attempts were made within the first three years of her marriage; but, young as she was and in delicate health, it was agreed on all hands that she met the danger in a manner worthy of her rank. On June 10, 1840, at the court of Edward Oxford, a dissipated youth of 17, who had been servant in a public-house, fired 2 pistols at the Queen and Prince Alfred at the door of the Constitution Club in an open place. It was done in such a any longer. She had property worth brought in about $200 a year and a baby. After the separation she had three children at him while he was riding in a carriage. On the 10th of last month she went to live in her house. Heard him tell his wife. Co-respondent had been bankrupt and in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings there was an arrangement put in, signed by respondent, co-respondent, in which these two parties had agreed to live together as man and wife for the next six months.
